Vocational Assessment

Vocational Assessments for Jobseekers

What is a Vocational Assessment?

Vocational Assessments are designed to assist jobseekers who are unsure of their career path, need to re-skill or are returning to the workforce, and who want to identify their best job options.

The Vocational Assessment is completed by a qualified Rehabilitation Counsellor and usually lasts for about 1.5 hours. The Vocational Assessment measures an individual's vocational aptitudes and preferences using the Occupational Search Inventory (OSI) and Work Aspect Preference Scale (WAPS).

These formal assessment tools enable us to objectively assess your vocational interests to work out which occupations would suit you. These job-matching tools also help you to think more clearly about the sort of work you would enjoy doing and enable you to learn about yourself in the process.

A Vocational Assessment measures:

- Abilities
- Career interest areas
- Skills
- Career related personality characteristics
- Specific occupations
- Personal and work values
